

GSBC 2023 SEMINAR

The Genealogy Society of Bergen County is going LIVE with “A Day with Jane E. Wilcox”

Saturday, 22 April 2023, 9:15am-3:30pm,
In-Person @ the Ridgewood Public Library

Please join us for our 2023 Seminar, featuring renowned genealogical speaker Jane E. Wilcox, of Forget-Me-Not Ancestry. A full day, including four lectures, door prizes, conviviality, one-on-one sharing of genealogical hints and tips, and extended Q&A time with the speaker, will be held at Ridgewood Public Library!

Jane’s degrees in history, journalism, and education provide an academic foundation for her work in genealogy, with specialties being researching people and their times and writing their stories. Jane is a member of the NY State Archives Advisory Committee and of the Family History Advisory Committee for the New York Genealogical & Biographical Society. Jane’s lectures provide something for everyone:

Finding American Women’s Voices through the Centuries: Letters, Journals, Newspapers, and Court Records

Women from the seventeenth through the twentieth centuries are challenging to uncover, but we may hear their voices in the documents that recorded their lives. With many examples from the speaker’s own New England, New York, and Wisconsin family history, learn where to look for womenfolk in letters, diaries and journals, newspapers, and various court records.

Forget Me Not: Remembering Our Grandmothers’ Stories

Women’s stories are often overshadowed by male-oriented records. Learn where to find and how to tell our women folk’s stories with the sources and everyday objects at hand. A new richness to family history can be had when we bring to life the stories of our grandmothers.

New York State Archives Records: A Focus on 19th and 20th Century Immigrants

The New York State Archives (NYSA) holds the records of the state government. With a focus on records that contain nineteenth and early twentieth century immigrants and their children, this talk will discuss new, as well as familiar, state-level records to assist in your family history research.

You Be the Judge: Was Nicholas Storm Alive during the Revolutionary War?

A family tradition claims that Philipsburg Manor tenant Nicholas Storm hosted Gen. Philip Schuyler at his home during the Battle of White Plains. Fact or fiction? You be the judge using typical and atypical sources for Westchester County including manorial, court, cemetery, Loyalist confiscation, U.S. Army forage, personal papers and accounts, probate, maps, laws, and more.
