Ancestry Library Edition

Have you used "ancestry.com" lately? The Society, the Ridgewood Library, and Society member Helene Rogers provide access to the ancestry.com databases through a subscription to Ancestry Library Edition (formerly Ancestry-Plus). AncestryLE can be accessed from any computer in the library. Just sign up for a computer and from the library home page, click "Reference Desk," then "Online Databases," then "AncestryLE."

Home Page

The home page allows you to search all the databases at once (a "global search"). If the name you are searching is very uncommon this will return a useful list of results. If your name is more common, choose a specific database to search. Individual databases often allow you to search on additional criteria. To see the list of individual databases, arranged by category, click on "Advanced Search."

"US Federal Census Images"

Census records are the most popular of databases in AncestryLE. Everyone who was in this country by 1930 should appear in the census records (although finding them can be tricky). AncestryLE has images of all of the Federal Census enumeration sheets including the Veteran's Census of 1890. There are indexes for all of the years (1900 is not yet completed). Most of the indexes are "every name," not just "head-of-household" indexes. Advanced search options are available when searching individual census years.

"Immigration Records"

So you've found everyone, including your collateral lines, in the census—what's next? If your ancestors were immigrants, finding ship's passenger lists is very valuable. AncestryLE has an immigration database (which was not available in AncestryPlus). The most important of the databases are the two indexes for arrivals at the Port of New York from 1820-1850 and from 1851-1891. There are indexes for other ports as well.

Note that with these indexes in AncestryLE and the lists available at ellisland.org (for free), New York ships' passenger lists are indexed from 1820 to 1924!

Geographic Access

In addition to US records, AncestryLE has databases from the United Kingdom, Ireland, and Canada. In "Advanced Search" clicking on the maps will display the databases which include that place.

1890 Census Substitute

Since virtually all of the 1890 Federal Census was destroyed, ancestry.com has created a substitute from city directories, state censuses (from 1885 or 1895), and voter registrations. New data is being added on a regular basis.

WW I Draft Registration Cards

The WW I draft registration cards include men born between 1873 and 1900 who were not already in the military. To see which states have been added, scroll to the bottom of the search page.

There is much, much more in AncestryLE. Sign up and explore! Classes are being offered on using AncestryLE. Check with the library to register. Happy Hunting!

The Genealogical Society of Bergen County, NJ, is an organization of people interested in educating others in family and local history preservation. The various ancestral trails of its members span much of the U.S., Canada, most Eastern and Western European countries as well as other parts of the world. Some members trace back to this country's first settlers, while others are the children of recent immigrants. Our purpose is to bring together family tree researchers for mutual assistance and a sharing of research experiences and to encourage the preservation of family history by the public through educational programs and classes.

Membership in the Genealogical Society of Bergen County is open to all those interested in genealogy. Annual dues are $15 (Individual membership), $17 (Family membership), and $18 (Outside of the US).

The Genealogical Society of Bergen County is a tax-exempt organization as described in sections 501 (c) (3) and 509 (a) (2) of the Internal Revenue Code. Bequests, legacies, devises, transfers or gifts to the Society are deductible for federal income, estate, and gift tax purposes as provided by the I.R.C.

The Archivist is published four times a year and mailed to members about the 15th of February, May, August, & November. Members are encouraged to submit queries, articles, hints, suggestions, etc. for publication. The deadline for submissions is the 10th of the month preceding publication. Send material to: Genealogical Society of Bergen County, PO Box 432, Midland Park, NJ 07432

While we strive for accuracy, the Society assumes no responsibility for typos, errors of fact, or opinions expressed or implied by contributors. Errors brought to our attention will be corrected.

From the Editor

A happy, healthy and successful New Year to all. Maria Hopper has contributed the Rev. Talmadge's Church Records of the Reformed Church of Clarkstown. We are publishing a list of Communicants in this issue. "From the Family Files" continues with more Ackerman information. Joe Boyle can still use more help!

Our member Bob Hubbard has contributed his family tree for publication. We are making a start with that also. If you are interested in publishing your genealogy information, let me know.

Please send your comments (negative or positive) and submissions to: afinab@hotmail.com or to the Society's mailbox. Deadline for submissions to the May Archivist is April 15.

Newsletter / Archivist Committee

Right now we specifically need people to help with getting the Archivist ready for mailing. Barbara Johansson has been doing this for years, and she would like a change of shift. This is your chance to make a contribution to the society!

Message from the President

by Arnie Lang

This year has been another very active year for the Society: interesting programs, classes, library accessions and patron assistance, an all-day seminar, talks, and other events. Space constraints prevent listing all of the accomplishments. None would have been possible without the help of many of our members.

On behalf of the Board of Trustees, I thank all of these volunteers for their efforts.

Register of Communicants

from Rev. David M. Talmage's Pastor's Register Reformed Church Clarkstown.

Contributed by Maria Hopper

Abbreviation as used in original records: wf=wife; wid.=widow; con.= by confession; cert. = by certificate from another church

Since Rev. Talmage was pastor of the Clarkstown Reformed Church beginning in Sep. of 1884, this list may be a list of members of the church at that time and those who joined after his ministry there began.

Editor's note: The original document contained an age and a remark column. Due to space restrictions I have combined those, and added 'Born' in front of the dates in the Age column.

Genealogy Quips (thanks to the OCGS News & Nancy Groo)

Heredity: Everyone believes in it until their children act like fools.

That's the problem with the gene pool: NO Lifeguards

I'm not stuck, I'm ancestrally challenged.

Any family tree produces some lemons, some nuts, and a few bad apples.

Websites of Interest

1. City Directories of the USA
<http://uscitydirectories.com/index.html>
Possibly one of the most over-looked resources by genealogists, city directories have been around since the 1700s and can fill in the blanks between censuses and help trace wandering ancestors. This web site attempts to identify all printed, microfilmed, and online directories, and then tells you the repositories where they're held. For instance, you will find that there are city directories for the city of Passaic from 1882 to 1930 and that most of them are available from the LDS Family History Library.

Thanks to Arnie Lang

2. Searching for Norwegian Ancestors? Archives, censuses and other official sources are becoming increasingly available on the internet to start searching for your forefathers in Norway. The Sons of Norway Newsletter Service suggests visiting the following web sites:

<http://www.disnorge.no/whoarewe.htm> Genealogy Society of Norway
<http://www.rhd.uit.no/indexeng.html> The Norwegian Historical Data Centre

3. 10,000 Year Calendar
<http://www.calendarhome.com/tyc>
With this calendar you can view a month or a year calendar for any year 1 to 10,000 A.D. All leap years and calendar changes are accounted for. (You also have the choice of when the calendar changed from Julian to Gregorian, October of 1582 or September of 1752.) There is almost everything you ever wanted to know about calendars. For instance, convert dates among Gregorian, Julian, Mayan, Persian, Indian Civil, Bahá'í, French Republican, Hebrew, and Islamic, calculate the number of days between two dates and more. Print your own calendars - you can even print a 100 year perpetual calendar.
I easily found that I was born on a Wednesday, and then found everything else that occurred on that date. (Something that I may add to my history to add some flavor.)

Thanks to Geri Mola

4. The Archives of the Reformed Church in America
<http://www.rca.org/aboutus/archives/index.html>
The Archives is housed at the Gardner A. Sage Library of New Brunswick Theological Seminary. This web page provides information about the Archives, how to research at the archives, what resources are available, some on-line historical information and photo galleries, etc. A good place to start if you are interested in researching Reformed Church records.

There are historical listings of all pastors for all Reformed Churches in America, listings of local church records in the archives of churches in Canada and the US, etc. I was able to find a listing of available church records of the German Reformed Church in Hoboken, which include some of my grandfather's records.

From the Annual Report

Adapted by the editor from the report by Arnie Lang

General

Our total membership was 383 at the end of the year. The GSBC continues its mission of seeking out and preserving information about the families and genealogical records of the greater Bergen County area, and offering educational and other assistance to all those interested in genealogical research. Again, this is only made possible by the volunteers of your society.

Significant Programs and Events

In addition to our Monthly Programs & Workshop Sessions, Annual Picnic (June) and New Member Reception (October), we had an out-standing all-day seminar on May 15th. New this year was the LockIn for Genealogists at the Ridgewood Public Library on Nov. 6th which was a great success. Our September program, "Stump the Experts", received compliments from virtually all who attended. We are planning a similar program for this year.

School & Classes

Both the nine-wk Genealogy and Family History Class at Ridgewood Community Schools and the 4 week Beginners Genealogy Class at the Bergen Community College - Institute for Learning in Retirement were again taught in the spring. These courses seem to act as an excellent introduction to the Society. Fourteen Technology Classes were held at the RPL to introduce genealogists to a variety of subjects.

Different class schedules in Spring and Fall are being considered to reach more genealogists. Adding classes at the RPL or elsewhere, and conducting mini-classes prior to the regular meetings are also being considered.

Special Projects

The GSBC Family Files Project continues to digitize the ancestral charts, notes, etc. that have been submitted (over) by our members to make these records available on CD-Rom. At this time, the project is about 40% complete: around 40,000 people have been entered into the database.

Work also continues on transcribing the 1816 County & State Tax Rateables as a substitute for the missing 1790 to 1820 census. When completed, it may be published as a CD-Rom as well as serially in the Archivist. The 1890 Veterans' Schedules for Bergen County are also being transcribed (as a substitute for the missing 1890 census).

Library

The combined genealogy collection of the GSBC and the Ridgewood Public Library continue to grow. 27 books and 6 CD-Roms were added to the GSBC collection. In addition the GSBC is subscribing to the New England Ancestors.com service, and continues its support of the subscriptions of AncestryPlus (now AncestryLibraryEdition) and Heritage Quest.

Volunteer Library Patron Assistants continue to help at the library and provide research assistance to researchers. 13 regular and one substitute Patron Assistant logged 300 hours and helped more than 75 patrons. They also researched over 50 queries received by the GSBC.

Notes from the Library

by Peggy W. Norris, Librarian

Most of us have used Federal Census records. We use AncestryLE and Heritage Quest Online and we find enumerations of people with information such as age, birthplace and occupation. But have you used the other censuses available? I see you raising your eyebrows—in surprise and in anticipation. “Other censuses? Wow!”

Many states did State Censuses in between the Federal Censuses—usually on the “5” years. These censuses asked a variety of questions, varying by year and by state, but are much like the Federal Census. They are especially important in filling the gap left by the loss of the 1890 Federal Census. In general they are not indexed and not available on the Internet, so you must search by locality and wind that microfilm. For Bergen County, Ridgewood Library has state censuses for 1855-1865, 1885-1915, all on the “5” years (REF MF 3-10e). In general, State Censuses are held at state archives. For more about State Censuses and about their locations see the very helpful book State Census Records by Ann S. Lainhart in our Genealogy Reference Collection (GEN REF 317.3 LAI).

The Federal government in the past, as now, was interested in more than population statistics. From 1850-1880 they collected information about farms, industry, mortality, and more. The agricultural census recorded types of crops and the amount each farm produced. The farms are listed within towns by the owner. In 1880 John Graydon of Ridgewood tilled 25 acres, had 7 acres of woodland, sold $700 worth of products, and valued his farm at $25,000. He sold 50 bushels of potatoes, 200 bushels of apples, and 250 lbs. of butter.

Products of Industry schedules list manufacturers with a description of the business. In 1860 John Yeomans owned a saw mill in Franklin Township (Bergen County) valued at $500.

Unfortunately the quality of the microfilm makes it difficult to read the additional information. It is interesting to see that most of the “industry” in Franklin Township was saw or grist mills.

The Mortality Schedules list everyone who died in the past year with information about the death, birthplace, and occupation. In some cases these are the only death-related records available. The Social Statistics schedules provide a picture of your ancestor’s community by using aggregate social statistics to describe the place.

The Library has the Agricultural Census, Mortality Schedules, Products of Industry, and Social Statistics for years 1850-1880 for Bergen County (REF MF 11-22).

An especially important census is that of the Veterans of the Civil War taken in 1890. Since the population part of the census was destroyed, this may be the only information available about an individual at that time. It records information about the unit served and injuries received. Ancestry Library Edition has an every-name index for this census linked to images of the census pages. There is also a transcription for Bergen county available at the Library (LOCAL HISTORY REF 929.374921 CENSUS REC VETERANS). With the information from the Veterans Census it is easy to request Civil War pension files from the National Archives.

For more information about Federal non-population schedules and their locations see the following website at the National Archives:

www.archives.gov/research_room/genealogy/census/nonpopulation_census_records_content.html#mpubs or “Google” (“nonpopulation census” nara). The page is the first on the list.

You can also refer to The CensusBook by William Dollarhide in our Genealogy Reference collection (GEN REF 317.3072 DOL).

Good hunting in the non-population censuses!

The Genealogical Society of Bergen County, NJ, is an organization of people interested in educating others in family and local history preservation. The various ancestral trails of its members span much of the U.S., Canada, most Eastern and Western European countries as well as other parts of the world. Some members trace back to this country's first settlers, while others are the children of recent immigrants. Our purpose is to bring together family tree researchers for mutual assistance and a sharing of research experiences and to encourage the preservation of family history by the public through educational programs and classes.

Membership in the Genealogical Society of Bergen County is open to all those interested in genealogy. Annual dues are $15 (Individual membership), $17 (Family membership), and $18 (Outside of the US).

New in the Library

by Peggy W. Norris, Librarian

The 1913 "Bromley Atlas" of Bergen County has detailed maps which highlight homes and their owners as well as some businesses. We are fortunate to have a reproduction which is available at the Ridgewood Public Library for use. To make it more useful Afina Broekman has indexed all of the names appearing on the maps for the western part of Bergen County. (Indexing for the eastern half is underway.) The names are entered in Past Perfect (a genealogy and local history database available at the Library) and are also listed in a printed index available in the Local History Reference Center (LHR 912.74921 Bromley INDEX). Take advantage of one more way of finding your Bergen County ancestor! (To view the map, make an appointment by calling 201-670-5600, ext. 135.)

In Memoriam Patricia Boyle

3/5/1936 - 2/24/2005

Patricia Allan (nee Vreeland) Boyle was the daughter of the late Edwin Wesley Vreeland and Marian Maxwell Mackenzie. She was born in Montclair, NJ, on 5 Mar 1936. She attended the local schools and graduated in 1953 from Passaic Valley Regional High School, where she met her future husband, Joseph Boyle, III.

Patti graduated from Paterson State Teachers College and taught Kindergarten in Cedar Grove, NJ.

In 1985, while preparing for her parents' fiftieth wedding anniversary, Patti started to get interested in genealogy. After joining the Genealogical Society of Bergen County, she played a very active role. For many years she was the membership chair, she promoted the use of computers within the society, and she was an active patron assistant. Her greatest interest and area of expertise was the preservation of photos and artifacts, and for many years she spoke on that subject in the Society sponsored genealogy course. For a number of years she and her husband coordinated this course together. Up to her death on 24 Feb 2005, she and her husband were still actively pursuing genealogy.

Patti enjoyed the hobby of ceramics, dried flower arranging, and raising and showing miniature schnauzers. With her first schnauzer pet came a succession of breedings and personal ring-handlings that produced three American champions, one Canadian champion and one that held points in Bermuda. In 1976 her American champion, "Bodoc's Reflection of Abby" became the third top miniature schnauzer in Canada.

Surviving is her husband of 48 years Dr. Joseph Boyle III of Wyckoff; her daughter, Debra Louise and her husband Timothy Leighton of Bloomington, IL; and two sons, Joseph Edwin (Jeb) of Asbury Park, NJ, and Bruce Allan of Wyckoff; her sister, Pamela V. Aloia, of Verona, NJ. Also surviving are six grandchildren, Devin Boyle, Kathryn Leighton, Cameron Boyle, Caroline Leighton, Adrian Boyle and Grace Leighton. Donations to St. Elizabeth's Episcopal Church or Genealogical Society of Bergen County, PO Box 432, Midland Park, NJ_07432 would be appreciated.

Filing your documents

By Afina Broekman

We all end up with piles of papers (if we are lucky they are not on the floor). No file system works for everyone, but I will here describe a system that was posted in one of my mailing lists, and that I adopted to great satisfaction.

My papers used to be organized by family line. However, I have quite a few intertwining lines, and it was not easy to decide to which line a particular piece belonged. Some sources covered more than one line, some covered a location, and it was again difficult to assign a place. Besides, I could never find anything back without leafing through a number of binders. My genealogy program does have a place to put in a file number, and I tried entering a number (consisting of a letter for the line, plus a consecutive number) into the designated place. However, I frequently forgot to enter it, and then it was hard to find it back.

I tried entering the sources in Excel, and keeping track of them that way. Again, it was not very successful, as I frequently forgot to enter them. It was also cumbersome to have to check in my genealogy program for the name of the source, and then in Excel for the location.

In short, I was unhappy with the way my file system was working.

And then I read about this simple solution. The genealogy program assigns a number to each source. That is the number that I use now. I file them all in numerical order in 3-ring binders, with tabbed dividers. If the binder is full, I start a new one. My binders have the numbers that they contain on the spine. Now all birth certificates (I use one source for Birth certificate, with details in the citation detail) are filed together, alphabetically arranged within that number. All obituaries: same thing. Looking one up is a snap! I don't have to remember which line it belongs to, I don't have to look in various places for the location, and I don't have to leaf through numerous binders to find what I want. And best of all, because it is so easy, I actually do file all the papers as soon as I have entered the information in my genealogy program!

Editor's Note: Do you have something that works well for you? Submit it for publication, it might work well for someone else too!

<http://www.itd.nps.gov/cwss/index.html>
 This is a searchable database compiled by the National Park Service and by thousands of volunteers from 36 states. It contains basic facts about 6.3 million servicemen who served on both sides during the Civil War. Other information includes: histories of regiments in both the Union and Confederate Armies, links to descriptions of 384 significant battles of the war, and other historical information. Additional information about soldiers, sailors, regiments, and battles, as well as prisoner-of-war records and cemetery records, will be added over time.

- David Tourison has gradually been working through "New Jersey Will Abstracts Transcriptions" and making it available online to NJ researchers. A note at the beginning of each email explains: [Note: "The books cited as Libers 1, 2, 3, etc., are of West Jersey Wills. Those cited as Libers A, B, etc., are of East Jersey Wills. Where there is no reference, the wills or other papers, of which abstracts are given, are among the unrecorded wills of the county to which they pertain..."

3. Minnesota Birth Certificate Index

<<http://people.mnhs.org/bci/>>

The Minnesota Historical Society has started up a birth certificate index, with certificates being available from 1900 to 1908. More will be added over time. You may search by last name, first name, and mother's maiden name. You may also search a range of years. A search for Hodgson found 15 results, with the result listings including person's name, date of birth, county of birth, ID #, and mother's maiden name. From the search result page you can order birth certificate copies for $8.00 each

Notes from the Library

by Peggy W. Norris, Librarian

Not everything can be found at your local libraries. And not everyone can travel to major genealogical repositories. But everyone reading this newsletter has access to a wealth of information in libraries across the country.

Books and articles can be requested from libraries through interlibrary loan, a service provided by virtually every library in the country. You can request anything; however, some genealogical titles may not be available because they do not circulate. Concentrate these requests on books about places and families and organizations (such as military units). Books with actual records may be harder to get. Photocopies of articles of a reasonable length are also available through interlibrary loan.

Fortunately, there are libraries which cater to genealogists. Mid-Continent Public Library (MCPL) and National Genealogical Society (NGS) have large genealogy collections which they are willing to lend. Use their websites to search the catalogs and to find directions for making requests through your library.

URL:

MCPL <http://www.mcpl.lib.mo.us/genlh/about/requests.htm>

NGS <http://www.ngsgenealogy.org/bookloan.htm>

Articles found in PERSI, an index to periodical articles available at HeritageQuest Online, can be ordered directly from Allen County Public Library (ACPL).

URL:

<http://www.acpl.lib.in.us/genealogy/ArticleFulfillment.pdf>

The American Genealogical Biographical Index (AGBI), available at AncestryLE, indexes names in books. Copies of pages in books identified through AGBI are available directly from Godfrey Memorial Library.

URL: <http://www.godfrey.org/agbi.html>

Don't forget about Family History Centers which are available throughout the country. You can order microfilm of original records and books from the Family History Library in Salt Lake City. To find what you want go to www.familysearch.org.

HeritageQuest Online "Books" indexes and provides images for 25,000 books. Use at the Ridgewood Public Library.

To identify books and articles of interest:

Note references in the books, articles, and genealogy databases that you use.

Use online library catalogs. You may not be able to borrow from these libraries, but you can identify that an item exists and try for it elsewhere. Use for instance the Library of Congress at www.loc.gov or the New York Public Library at www.nypl.org

Use Genealogical Library Master Catalog (GLMC) to identify books (REF CDs 23-25)

Use printed bibliographies and library catalogs. The call numbers are in GEN REF 016.929 and GEN REF 026.929

Happy Hunting!

Genealogist Allan Plage, a patron of the Library, made a very generous donation toward completing our set of Search for the Passengers of the Mary and John, 1630. These books chronicle the history, background, ancestors, and descendants of the passengers of the Mary and John, which arrived in New England from England in 1630. We have added all the volumes currently available, bringing our set to 20 of the 27 volumes published. Check it out at GEN REF 929.34 England SPE.

The Genealogical Society of Bergen County, NJ, is an organization of people interested in educating others in family and local history preservation. The various ancestral trails of its members span much of the U.S., Canada, most Eastern and Western European countries as well as other parts of the world. Some members trace back to this country's first settlers, while others are the children of recent immigrants. Our purpose is to bring together family tree researchers for mutual assistance and a sharing of research experiences and to encourage the preservation of family history by the public through educational programs and classes.

Membership in the Genealogical Society of Bergen County is open to all those interested in genealogy. Annual dues are $15 (Individual membership), $17 (Family membership), and $18 (Outside of the US).

The Genealogical Society of Bergen County is a tax-exempt organization as described in sections 501 (c) (3) and 509 (a) (2) of the Internal Revenue Code. Bequests, legacies, devises, transfers or gifts to the Society are deductible for federal income, estate, and gift tax purposes as provided by the I.R.C.

The Archivist is published four times a year and mailed to members about the 15th of February, May, August, & November. Members are encouraged to submit queries, articles, hints, suggestions, etc. for publication. The deadline for submissions is the 10th of the month preceding publication. Send material to: Genealogical Society of Bergen County, PO Box 432, Midland Park, NJ 07432

While we strive for accuracy, the Society assumes no responsibility for typos, errors of fact, or opinions expressed or implied by contributors. Errors brought to our attention will be corrected.

From the Editor

We are continuing most features from last issue. Lots of genealogical information! Again, please share your experiences with the other members by writing a small piece for the Archivist!

Do you have lots of Bergen County ancestors? One interesting way of looking at your genealogy is following the maternal line! Send us your stuff! However, if you do, make sure the emphasis is on Bergen County or closely surrounding areas.

Please send your comments (negative or positive) and submissions to: afinab@hotmail.com or to the Society's mailbox. Deadline for submissions to the November Archivist is Oct. 15.

Volunteer Opportunities

Volunteers are the heart of an organization. All our officers, committee members and others serve without compensation. We need volunteers to continue to provide our services. If you can give even a small amount of time, you can participate in an activity of interest. Volunteering will increase your skills and knowledge by working with others. Here follow a few of the possibilities:

Membership Committee:

Help maintain membership records and nametags.

Computer Interest:

Participate in the Computer Special Interest Group or help maintain the GSBC webpage.

Special Projects:

Propose and work on special genealogical projects to further our goal of making Bergen County history more accessible.

Publications:

Some of our members are working on special publications. Volunteers are always needed to help. Inquire at meetings, or contact the board.

Website and E-Mail Newsletter

Please note that our website has a new address. The new URL is <http://www.njgsbc.org> and it contains all the useful information you are used to. So check it frequently for up-to-date information. A list of New Jersey and New York Vital Records that are available in the Library has been posted on the website. The link is in the sidebar on the left side.

If you have e-mail and you have not been receiving any messages from the Society, it probably means that we have an incorrect or outdated e-mail address, or we never received an address. If that is the case, please send your latest e-mail address to arnielang@att.net.

Genealogy Tips - No. 5

by Steven Gabai - sgabai@hotmail.com

We all know the key to genealogy research is finding records. However, there's something very important to this complicated process that gets overlooked: taking good notes.

In May my father's cousin wanted to track down a cousin. So I went through my notes looking for anything about him and found two letters I wrote in Jan. 2003 to relatives within this branch of the family (I never heard back. They either died or moved).

In the letters I asked if the names "Galoumiti" or "Camoso" sounded familiar. Galoumiti? Camoso? Who are they? I don't have those names in my tree. Where did those names come from? So I went into my notes to find out. But all I found was a yellow post-it with nothing but the two names (that sure explained things). So I don't have a clue what they mean or where I got them from.

But that's not all. While going through my records, I came across notes about my father's grandfather, Gershon Algranati. He was one of my long-term projects because I couldn't find his NYC death certificate (he's not buried next to my great-grandmother, which would be too easy). The notes on him were cemeteries I had called, asking if he was buried there. And next to each cemetery it said "not there" with the date, either "Dec. 02" or "Mar. 03." However, I did have a date of death "2/27," presumably 1927.

Let me back up a second. A few years ago, a researcher in one of my newsgroups posted an email saying that Highland View Cemetery in NY - which I was very interested in - became Mt. Judah Cemetery. So I called Mt. Judah and, while looking at these notes, assumed it was Gershon who I had found.

But in looking at a set of notes I took at the NYC Archives in Aug. 2002, I noticed that I searched for Gershon's death certificate with a 2-8-27 DOD (it wasn't there). But if I went to the archives in Aug. 2002 knowing his date of death and gravesite, why was I calling cemeteries looking for him in Dec. 2002 and March 2003? This is what drives you crazy.

But the next day it finally dawned on me. The tip I got about the cemetery name change wasn't about Gershon. It was about a grave I was looking for on my mother's side! And I remembered that I had gotten Gershon's date of death from the NY Times database and from a "Letter of Administration," which I got at the NYC Archives in Aug. 2002 (I had notes about the "LOA" but I didn't understand what they meant at the time I was going "crazy." Everything made sense when I found my copy of the "LOA").

So all this confusion about Gershon, Galoumiti and Camoso could have been avoided if I simply kept better notes. But getting confused and going "crazy" is common, especially when you spend months or even years researching something very specific and you put it off for a year or two. Because when you come back to it, you'll be at the mercy of your notes to see exactly where you left off.

So take note!

- Make specific notes on every piece of information that comes in. And identify where it came from or who gave it to you.
- Date everything with month, day and year. Since postmarks aren't clear and Europeans invert month and day, mark the date received directly on envelopes.
- Notes can never be too clear! i.e. "Gershon's DOD 2-8-27 from NYT and Letter of Admin. Death Cert. and grave still not found - 8/26/02." Had I written that, I wouldn't be writing this.
- When you get home after visiting the library or archives, write a specific summary detailing what you did and did not accomplish. And most important, write down ideas for future research that you thought of while there (such as checking a different time-frame on a passenger manifest). Because months later when you decide to return, you're not going to remember. Don't count on the sloppy notes you took while scrolling microfilm!
- Save copies of letters and important emails you write because they're the best notes you have. Save especially the letter in which you explain how you're connected to a distant family member. Because years after you've figured it out, you won't remember how you did it. Saving copies will also come in handy if you have to re-send the letter or if you get an email reply without your original text.
- For specific searches that you know will be long and complicated, give it its own "note page" where you can make detailed notes of everything you do.
- Never throw anything away!

Genealogy is a like scavenger hunt that never ends. So make sure you mark every step of the way as clearly as possible. Because sooner or later you will have to retrace your steps.

"Crazy" is a relative term in my family.

A pack rat is hard to live with but makes a fine ancestor.

I think my ancestors had several "Bad heir" days.

Websites of Interest

1. The Department of Veteran's Affairs has put on the web records for veterans buried at 120 national cemeteries since the Civil War. The Nationwide Gravesite Locator also has records for some state veteran's cemeteries and burials in Arlington National Cemetery since 1999. The URL is <http://www.cem.va.gov/>

Thanks to Marion Armstrong and the Winter 2005 issue of the Berks County Gen. Soc. Newsletter

Some websites from Arnie Lang's e-mail letter:

2. The Digital Picture Gallery of the New York Public Library consists of a collection of over 250,000 images online. There are about ten different categories of pictures, but those of interest for your family history may be:

History and Geography - including maps, civil war photos, immigration photos, and others.

Cities and Buildings - including more than 54,000 archival photographs of New York City with captions. The images are primarily streetscapes and exterior building views from the 1870s-1970s, with the preponderance of images dating from the 1910s-1940s. Plans are to increase this to 500,000 images in the next few months. Pictures can be downloaded free from <http://digitalgallery.nypl.org/nypldigital/>

3. Library of Congress Prints and Photographs has over a million images that can be downloaded. One of my favorites is the Historic American Buildings Survey/Historic American Engineering Record collection. A search for Bergen County, New Jersey resulted in pictures of more than a hundred historic houses and buildings in Bergen County; most taken in the 1930's. The URL is <http://lcweb2.loc.gov/pp/pphome.html>

4. Boston Pilot's "Missing Friends"

<http://infowanted.bc.edu/>

From October 1831 through October 1921, the Boston Pilot newspaper printed a "Missing Friends" column with advertisements from people looking for "lost" friends and relatives who had emigrated from Ireland to the United States. This collection of more than 31,438 records is available as a searchable online database, which contains a text record for each ad that appeared in the Pilot.

The advertisements contain the ordinary but revealing details about the missing person's life: the county and parish of their birth, when they left Ireland, the believed port of arrival in North America, their occupation, and a range of other personal information. Some records may have as many as 50 different data fields, while others may offer only a few details. The people who placed ads were often anxious family members in Ireland, or the wives, siblings, or parents of men who followed construction jobs on railroads or canals. These "Missing Friends" advertisements provide a window on the world of Irish immigration. For further resources and more about the history of Irish immigration, the Great Famine, and the Pilot, visit the History or Resources pages.

5. Utah Death Index 1904- 1954

The state archives' Utah History and Research Center has created an online index to hundreds of thousands of death certificates issued from 1904 (when statewide record keeping began) to 1954. Utah death certificates aren't public until 50 years after they're created. Search the database at <http://historyresearch.utah.gov/indexes/20842.htm> by your ancestor's name. A form on the results page lets you contact the state archives to inquire about ordering copies.

6. The 1901 Canadian census records are on-line. The 1901 Census offers a rich source of information about Canada and Canadians at the turn of the 20th Century. Through this research tool you can access digitized images of the original census returns, which record age, nationality, religion, profession, income, education, etc. for every single resident of Canada on 31 March 1901. A FAMILY PUZZLE

From an 1885 Port Jervis Newspaper, thanks to Ben Groo

Over an evening lunch in his cosy home the other night ex-Governor, Garcelon of Maine, gave out a conundrum. "I am now visiting regularly," said he, a family composed of the following relatives, all living under one roof:

1 great-grandmother	1 uncle
2 grandmothers	3 brothers
3 mothers	1 widow
1 grandfather	1 stepdaughter
1 father	4 granddaughters
3 sons	1 great-granddaughter
1 great-grandson	1 great-grandson
1 grandson	2 wives
6 sisters	1 husband
6 daughters	1 grandnephew
1 daughter-in-law	1 grandniece
2 great-aunts	4 nieces
5 aunts	2 nephews

"The question is," said the ex-Governor, "how many people are there in the house?"

Editor: Anyone who wants to solve this puzzle, can send me the answer for publication.

DNA Testing for Genealogical Purposes: A Basic Introduction

The science of DNA analysis is an amazing tool that many genealogists can benefit from in their efforts to link families together. However, like any tool, it is important to understand what a DNA analysis can and cannot reveal. Once you learn when to use DNA testing, you'll be able to solve genealogy problems that otherwise might be unsolvable.

The most important aspect of DNA testing, or any research project for that matter, is having an idea of what you want to determine, and defining the evidence that will prove or disprove a conclusion. With DNA testing this means selecting the right person (or people) to be tested. In some cases, testing the DNA of more than one person is the only way to solve genealogy roadblocks. In order to know whom to test, you must understand who has inherited the DNA in question.

Why Use Genetic Genealogy?

Ask yourself the following:

- Are you looking to validate or invalidate genealogical records?
- Do you think you may have a surname spelling change or adoption in your line?
- Are you looking to verify relationships with a family from a region where you believe your line may have lived?

- Do you believe, for any other reason, that you have a common ancestor with another individual or group?

If you answered "yes" to any of these questions, then a Genetic Genealogy test may help you find answers. Ancestry.com is once again offering several DNA testing kits that are helpful in family history research. For more information, visit:

www.ancestry.com/rd/prodredir.asp?sourceid=831&key=P1025994

How it Helps

1. DNA Matching: Comparing your results (your ancestral signature) against other people's DNA signatures can help you find new relatives and ancestors, or ancestors for whom there are no written records. The two primary tests for this purpose are the Y-chromosome test, and the Mitochondrial DNA sequencing. The Y-chromosome test relies on the male line while the Mitochondrial DNA sequencing needs a female line to test.

Both of these tests can be very helpful, but the Y-chromosome test has more scientific studies to support its use for genealogical purposes. While the Mitochondrial DNA sequencing is thought to be just as useful in proving relatedness, there are fewer tools and studies available to help interpret the results.

2. Proving Relationships: Proving relationships is one of the most useful aspects of DNA testing for genealogists. If you have a theory that two people might be related in your pedigree, but you have been unable to locate any documentation to prove your theory, DNA testing might be able to help. If the correct two (or more) people have their DNA analyzed, a signature match will indicate that they are closely related. A mismatch will confirm the two people are not closely related.

Exact matches of Y-chromosome tests will indicate that the two people are related within about five generations. If one or two markers on the signature are different, the two people are still related but the relationship is likely too distant to be genealogically relevant. A statistical model is used to determine the most likely number of generations between the two people.

Exact matches of Mitochondrial DNA sequencing also indicate relatedness, but there are not sufficient studies to determine the number of generations separating the two people.

3. Surname/Clan Reconstruction & Regional Migration— This is another common use of Y-chromosome tests (Y-chromosome Haplotype). Groups of families with a common or similar surname origin might want to know if (and how) they are related to one another. Individuals and groups can also discover genetic connection to others living in a country where the family is thought to have lived within a migration path. For example, a group of possibly related families with the surname of "Thomas" wants to find out if they all have a common male ancestor from whom they descended, who lived in a particular country. If a male surname representative from each family submits his DNA for the Y-chromosome test, the signatures can be compared to essentially reconstruct the tree back to a common ancestor.

Some individuals or families may have completely different signatures indicating they did not descend from the same common ancestor as the others. With a large enough sample of signatures, it is possible to tell which branch of the Thomas tree each family came from and how close that branch was to the common ancestor.

What DNA Testing Will Not Tell You

1. These tests will not reveal any information about your health or your predisposition for certain diseases. These tests do not look at the regions of your DNA that are associated with health information or genetic traits. Since the regions being examined are between your genes, regions called "Junk DNA," nothing in the results will imply any health-related information.
2. These tests do not create a unique personal genetic fingerprint that can be used to identify you. Since you and other family members will have exact matching results, these tests are not capable of proving unique identity. You can think of these tests as a unique family fingerprint.
3. These tests do not tell you which ethnic tribe you may belong to or the exact country of origin for your surname. They are designed, rather, to allow you to discover these genealogical answers by comparing to others who are proven to fall within certain genealogical characteristics.

Queries

Q2005-4. Regina FALLACE is looking for information on David TEACHMAN, who died circa 1828 in Bergen County, NJ. His wife was Mariah/Maria. Regina descends from their son Andrew, born circa 1775 in Bergen County. Andrew married Eleanor BOARD, she was born 25 Dec 1790. She would like to find evidence that David and Maria supported the American Revolution.

Q2005-5. Grace FORKAN's son-in-law found two tombstones on his property. The first one read "HUBERT DeWOLF died 1817 July 15 age 80 years and 5 days." The second "our babies D.R & W.J. TULLY Oct. 26, 1927." According to neighbors the house (located in Westwood) was owned by a Brinckerhoff, who worked for a cemetery, and the stones were already in the yard in the 1970's. Her question concerns what should be done with the stones. Anybody who can shed light on this, can write Grace at 352 Howard Ave, Washington Township, NJ 07676 or email her at GraceForkan@aol.com.

Other Genealogical Societies

Reprinted from the Gen. Soc. of New Jersey Spring 2005 Newsletter (thanks to Nancy Groo):

The New Jersey Society of the War of 1812 has launched a project to locate as many gravesites as possible of Veterans of the War of 1812 buried in New Jersey.

The society is asking all Historical and Genealogical organizations, and their members to join with them in this project by advising them of gravesites they know of or can locate through their research. The society also intends to contact as many New Jersey cemeteries as possible to determine if they can provide information.

The society is open to all, and all suggestions concerning locations or information that will assist with this project will be appreciated.

If possible, the society hopes to place an identifying marker on each grave. Please provide the name of the veteran, any information available about his service, the cemetery location, gravesite in the cemetery and gravestone or other available information.

Information or questions can be sent to Robert J. Fenner at rjfenner@comcast.net.

November 2005

President's Message

by Arnold Lang

November - 2005 - How time flies! It was in November 2001 that you, the members of the Genealogical Society of Bergen County (GSBC), elected me to be your President. It seems like yesterday, but as I look back on these four years, I note that a lot has happened at the GSBC. Not only has the membership in the GSBC increased during these four years, but the interest in researching family histories and the various resources available to perform that research has changed dramatically.

Our membership now stands at about 400 members and we continue to note a change in the interests of our members. Our Society started 35 years ago as the Pascack Genealogy Workshop, a small "club" of people researching their roots in Bergen County. This group has expanded and there still many members who live both in northern New Jersey and throughout the country looking for their Bergen roots. However, many new members have families from other areas and/or may be beginners just starting their family research. Our mission therefore has been changing to serve both of these groups of researchers.

In order to best help those doing local research, we continue to maintain and add Bergen County information to the joint GSBC/Ridgewood Public library collection. The local history room at the Ridgewood Library is now about at capacity, and plans are underway to greatly increase the size of this facility. In order to help members living outside of the area who may not be able to use the library, we welcome their queries regarding their Bergen County roots and either research them and/or publish them in The Archivist.

One area where significant changes have occurred in the last few years is the amount of data that is now available in databases on the Internet and in CD-Rom's. The GSBC, in addition to purchasing many CD-Rom's has joined together with others to subscribe and provide on-line access at the library to over 1 billion names, the US census records, Passenger Lists, 50,000 books, and other records. We now have subscriptions to on-line services such as AncestryLE, HeritageQuest On-Line, the New England Historic Genealogical Society On-Line, The New York Times, etc. We should strive to add to these resources in the coming years. In these last four years the GSBC has increased its education and other programs to help the many members just starting to hunt for their family roots as well as to assist those doing genealogical research. In addition to the classes that were held at the Ridgewood Adult Education School, genealogy classes are now held at Bergen Community College and technology classes, mini-classes prior to the meetings, and workshop sessions are now provided to help the members. Additional support provided by the GSBC includes; Library Patron Assistants available for consultation throughout every month, maintenance of the surname index and family files, publishing of the Archivist, establishment of the on-line GSBC Web Page and monthly e-mail newsletter.

We have been fortunate to have a number of knowledgeable and dedicated GSBC members to lead and work on the various committees which have made all of these accomplishments happen. It is these volunteers that enable the GSBC to function as an organization. All of our officers, committee members, and others serve without compensation, and I would like to remind everyone to step up and help! Make a difference! Remember: Volunteering also enables members who are beginners in genealogy to acquire skills and knowledge by working with others.

This month, elections will be held to fill some of the officer and trustee positions that are becoming vacant, including the position of president. Members have stepped forward and have been nominated to fill these positions and to continue to lead us for the next four years. As I step down as president, I would like to thank all who have worked so hard. Thank you for the support that has made these years both enjoyable and productive. I urge you to provide similar support to the Board of Trustees in these coming years. I will remain on the Board as "Past President" and will be supporting our new officers and look forward to assisting during their term in office. I hope you will all do the same!

The Genealogical Society of Bergen County, NJ, is an organization of people interested in educating others in family and local history preservation. The various ancestral trails of its members span much of the U.S., Canada, most Eastern and Western European countries as well as other parts of the world. Some members trace back to this country's first settlers, while others are the children of recent immigrants. Our purpose is to bring together family tree researchers for mutual assistance and a sharing of research experiences and to encourage the preservation of family history by the public through educational programs and classes.

Membership in the Genealogical Society of Bergen County is open to all those interested in genealogy. Annual dues are $15 (Individual membership), $17 (Family membership), and $18 (Outside of the US).

The Genealogical Society of Bergen County is a tax-exempt organization as described in sections 501 (c) (3) and 509 (a) (2) of the Internal Revenue Code. Bequests, legacies, devises, transfers or gifts to the Society are deductible for federal income, estate, and gift tax purposes as provided by the I.R.C.

The Archivist is published four times a year and mailed to members about the 15th of February, May, August, & November. Members are encouraged to submit queries, articles, hints, suggestions, etc. for publication. The deadline for submissions is the 10th of the month preceding publication. From the Editor

When you get this issue, several great programs are again behind us. The Lock-in will no doubt have been a success again, and I'm sure the joint program "Crossing the Borders" gave everyone who attended much information. It would be a service to the rest of the membership, if you attended either program, please write a short article for the Archivist.!

We are continuing most features from last issue. Lots of genealogical information! Do you have a success story, or did you find a great source of information? Please share your experiences with the other members by writing a small piece for the Archivist!

In the Library

"Forensic Genealogy," a book by Colleen Fitzpatrick, PhD has been purchased by the Society. The author gives us a whole new take on genealogy by explaining how to use the tools of detectives and crime scene investigators to look for clues to your ancestors in unexpected places, such as the edges and back of photographs, coroner's reports and hospital records!

The book comes with a CD-ROM with more extensive examples and stories unearthed with these methods.

The author offers to help anyone with a photo mystery. You can contact her at colleen@forensicgenealogy.info

More information is available on the author's website (www.forensicgenealogy.info)

For those researching their roots in early Manhattan, James Riker's books "Harlem, Its Origin and Early Annals" and "Revised History of Harlem" give a lot of early Manhattan genealogy. These books are NOT in the Genealogy Reference section, but in the regular reference (call# 974.71 Ri)

Notes from the Library

by Peggy W. Norris, Librarian

The realtor's mantra is "Location, location, location." It should be the genealogist's as well. For almost all genealogical records, civil and religious units of place are important to finding and interpreting the information we seek. Census records, baptismal records, naturalization papers, marriages, births, deaths, land records are all first and foremost records of place. Although some of these records are now indexed by name, place remains important in describing the life of your ancestor and many records without indexes can only be found by knowing (or guessing) the place of jurisdiction. Boundary lines of towns, counties, and states, and even national boundaries have changed over the years, so it is important to learn all you can about the places of your ancestors. Following are some of the resources in the library for identifying and describing places in the United States.

There are numerous resources in our library to identify a particular place at a particular time. Thorndale and Dollarhide's Map Guide to the US Census, shows state and county boundaries for each census year (through 1920). (GEN REF 317.30223 THO)

Kirkham's Genealogical and Historical Atlas of the United States has detailed maps selected from atlases published in various years and an 1884 gazetteer. (GEN REF 911.73 KIR)

State and National Boundaries of the United States by Gary Alden Smith (GEN REF 911.73 SMI) has narrative description and maps showing state and national boundaries. If your ancestor lived near a disputed state boundary, records could not only be found in different counties but different states as well.

Kane and Aiken's American Counties has the origins of county names, the county seats, area, dates of creation and population data from 1950-2000. Appendices list counties by date of creation, by state, and by county seat. (GEN REF 917.3 KAN)

Three gazetteers from the regular Reference collection can be helpful. American Place Names Dictionary has town and city names in 1994 with brief descriptions, including former names. (REF 917.3 A512) The Columbia Gazetteer of the World (REF 910.3 COL) has place names from 1998.

Lippincott's The Complete Pronouncing Gazetteer ... of the World (REF 910 LI) has names as they existed in 1905. In addition there are two online sources of geographic names: U.S. Census Bureau's U.S. Gazetteer (www.census.gov/cgi-bin/gazetteer) and from USGS the Geographic Names Information System (<http://geonames.usgs.gov/pls/gnispublic>).

Identifying the exact location of the place in question may require referral to more detailed sources than those listed above. The Handybook (GEN REF 929.1 HAN) has a bibliography of these atlases, maps, and gazetteers by state. Redbook (GEN REF 929.1 EIC) also has a section on maps for each state. (Both also have brief information on county history.)

We have some detailed sources of place information for New York State and New Jersey. For New Jersey, The Story of New Jersey's Civil Boundaries, 1606-1968 (LOCAL HISTORY REF 911.749 SNY) details the changing boundaries of the state, its counties and municipalities. The genealogy of Bergen County and its towns is available on the GSBC website. (Go to www.rootsweb.com/~njgsbc/ and click on "Bergen Co. History and Twsp. Boundaries" on the left side-bar.) Gordon's Gazetteer of the State of New Jersey (LOCAL HISTORY REF 910.3 GOR) has place names and brief descriptions for places in existence in 1834. For 1894, see Gannett's Geographic Dictionary (NJ REF 910.3 GAN). There are 5 more guides to NJ place names in NJ REF 910.3, including one for Indian names. A slim bibliography by Donald Sinclair is a guide to further books and articles about New Jersey place names (NJ REF 910.014 SIN).

For New York we have detailed maps of the origin of New York counties in New York: Atlas of Historical County Boundaries. (GEN REF 911.747 LON). French's 1860 Historical and Statistical Gazetteer of New York State (GEN REF 910.3747 SMI 1980 Reprint) has descriptions of counties and towns including their history and geography and such extras as lists of newspapers, etc.

For Bergen County and the 4 boroughs of New York City we have 1930 Census Enumeration Description maps on microfilm (REF MF 37, Rolls 23 and 24). These are useful for those hard to find city locations.

So dig in and find out more about the places you are researching. You can find these resources at many genealogical libraries, including ours.

Correction to the Demarest Genealogy

by June Wardell Mason

The family tree information for my mother, Florence Myers Freund, appeared in the Archivist some time ago. My father's great grandfather was the Judson Rice mentioned in the Demarest Genealogy who married Jane Demarest. I have been working on that line and believe that a correction is in order.

Here is some of the information I've gathered about Jane Demarest and Judson Rice, my great, great, great grandparents. I believe that the Jane who married Judson Rice was the daughter of Albert Demarest and Jane Banta, who was born 21 October 1802, not the older Jane. The ages given on the tombstones and obituaries are very close and seem to agree. Some of the sources I used are these:

The Demarest Family compiled under the auspices of the Demarest Family Association, Hackensack, New Jersey. Voorhis D. Demarest, President. Published 1964. Volume I.

Page VI-6 #6-58:

David P. Demarest married 1811 Jannetje Bogart. He died in New York City on 2 July 1821. She may have married (2) 25 August 1822, Greenwich Reformed Church, NYC, Judson Rice.

Page VI-7 #6-158:

Albert Demarest married in 1791 to Jannetje Banta and had daughter Jane (#7-308) born 21 October 1802 and baptised on 15 November 1802 at New York City Collegiate Church.

Jane Demarest born 21 Oct 1802, baptised 15 Nov 1802 married (?) 25 Aug 1822 to Judson Rice at Greenwich Reformed Church.

The Collegiate Church of New York City

Confirms by letter that Jane Demarest, daughter of Albert Demarest and Jannetje Banta Demarest was born 21 October 1802 and baptised at that church on 15 November 1802. Her brothers James (1798) and Henry (1800) were also baptised at the same church.

Vosburgh's transcript of records of the Reformed Dutch Church at Greenwich in the city of New York

Obituaries from Norwalk Gazette

1 Dec, 1885 - Judson Rice died at Rev. G. Hallenbeck's residence last week Sunday at age 87 (Rev. Hallenbeck's wife is Catherine, Judson and Jane's daughter.)

Census

1820, 30 and 40 censuses: found in the 9th Ward of New York City

1820 census: Judson alone

1830 census: family has one older woman, the rest of the sexes are right with ages almost correct

1840 census: ages and sexes exactly right

1850 census: not found, but he is listed in Dogget's Directory

1860 not found

1870-Norwalk-Judson is 71, a carman; Jane is 68, both born New York

1880-Norwalk-Judson is 82 and living with his daughter Hannah Vail.

I am content that this is the right Jane and hope my Demarest cousins will find it useful and convincing! I'd be happy to share.

Traveling In Europe? Need A Meeting?

by Nancy Ronning

If you're going to be in Europe, you might want to check out a meeting of the "Genealogical Association of English Speaking Researchers in Europe." The meetings are held on the last Thursday of the month at the Makedonia Restaurant, Heidelberg, Germany. While visiting my daughter and her family in Germany, I was warmly welcomed to a monthly meeting. It was a very informative meeting with a dedicated core group and traveling relatives and friends. Members include many experts in German language and script! And the food was delicious, as well.

For more information email Tom Prost Prost@pjsnet.com, or call GSBC member, Nancy Ronning (201-327-1163) or check the GAESRE web site at

The "Ask the Experts" program was again a great success. In the course of the evening the experts gave us many interesting facts, some of which I will recapitulate here. So, did you know that....

the Records of the Emigrant Savings Bank 1841-1945 are available on microfilm, and 1850-1883 is indexed and online at the New York Public Library?

Seton Hall University Library is the repository for the Catholic Diocese of Newark Archives; they have the records of all closed RC churches, and copies of many still existing churches?

the Naval Archives are located in the Naval Historical Center, 805 Kidder Breese Se, Washington Navy Yard, Washington DC 20374-5060?

many Civil War records are located in the Pennsylvania State Archives, 350 North Street, Harrisburg, PA 17120-0090, (717) 783-3281, website:

<http://www.phmc.state.pa.us/bah/dam/overview.htm?secid=31> the websites of consulates and embassies may have links and/or information about genealogy?

Miriam Weiner's index of extant Eastern European records is available as a searchable database at the Roots to Roots Foundation website <http://www.rtrfoundation.org/>?

if your ancestor was a tradesman in England, he could have been a guild member, and guild records still exist, at the Guildhall Library, or the Greater London Record Office, or sometimes at the offices of the individual guilds?

the Everton Anniversary Issue has a list of experts in the genealogy of diverse difficult to research cultures?

before World War I there was a naturalization wave among German speaking people, because Wilson threatened to deport them?

during the War of 1812, all "enemy aliens" from the British Isles had to register with the Marshall, and that these records are at NARA? Kenn Stryker-Rodda made an index [Editor: I have not been able to find the title] in the 16-1700's you had to be a citizen to own land?

even though the 1890 census is lost, Ancestry.com has the Veterans and Widows schedules online, and New York City has the 1892 police census?

in the early 1800's in New York you could only get a divorce by an act of the legislature?

Family Bible Records

This is the second in a series of Bible records of Bergen County families provided by GSBC member Nancy Terhune, Director of the Bergen County Historical Society Library Collections, from the BCHS Family Bible Collection. See Nov 2004 for a short introduction.

Anna Moore Van Saun

Bible Published by Luther Roby, Concord, NH, 1843
Surnames: MOORE, WILLING/ WALLING, VAN SAUN, CHRISTIE, ROMAINE, FIELDING, DEMAREST, VAN BUSKIRK, ECKERSON, LANDRINE, ZABRISKIE, NAUGEL

Date Range: 1786 - 1908

A transcription of this record is in the BCHS Library Collections. The original Bible was transcribed for the BCHS at an unspecified time (probably the late 1940's), with notation as follows: "This Bible was copied by Mrs. Robert Dickie, a member of the Red Mill Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and at the present time is owned by her family." It is likely that Mrs. Burnett, former BCHS librarian, arranged the data in its present format. This copy was made Feb. 2003 by N. Terhune for the BCHS. Comments in brackets [] are hers.

Is There a DNA Project on Your Surname?

Anyone who doubts that genetic genealogy (which I like to shorten to “genetealogy”) has truly arrived would have been astonished to see the recent gathering of close to two hundred DNA project administrators held in Houston, Texas, by Family Tree DNA. At a time when many conferences are seeing their attendance dip, this one-day symposium--quietly advertised by e-mail about three months before the event and strictly limited to those who manage a surname or regional project--had to turn away would-be participants due to lack of space. No one had imagined that so many would come from across the country on such short notice, but they did.

The DNA-Surname Connection

While there are a variety of tests now available, the clear favorite is still the standard Y-DNA test. The Y-chromosome is passed essentially unchanged from father to son, down through the generations (only men have a Y-chromosome, but women can participate by talking their father, brother, uncle, or cousin into taking the actual mouth swab test). In other words, Y-DNA is passed down exactly the same way our surnames are, so Y-DNA and surnames travel through time linked together. This is why surname studies are such an obvious application of genetic testing for genealogists.

Three hundred men named Murphy could all get tested and discover, by simply comparing their results, which ones share a common ancestor. Once they did, clusters of Y-DNA-mates would emerge, and each cluster would form a natural set of research buddies, since they know that their family trees converge at some point. It's true that this kind of testing won't reveal who the common ancestor is, but it does a dandy job of steering you in the right direction (e.g., “Hmmm...it seems most of the Murphys I match hail from North Carolina and Tennessee and a few have their lines traced back to County Kerry over in Ireland...”) or telling you which paths to avoid (as I learned when none of the Smolenyak lines wound up matching--so much for us having a common ancestor!).

An Easy Way to Jump In

If you're one of the many who has been watching from the sidelines to see how things develop, the good news is that your patience has been rewarded. Back when genetic genealogy first appeared on the scene--back in the Dark Ages of 2000 and 2001--it was necessary to launch a project of your own. But now there are thousands of surnames already being investigated (several sources claim up to nine thousand surnames), so there's a very good chance that you have the option of joining an existing project. How do you find out if there's one on your surname underway? Fortunately, you have a growing number of resources to choose from:

-- World Families Network (www.worldfamilies.net): This site, offered for the benefit of all by Rich and Terry Barton, contains a searchable list of projects, along with links to each project's website or contact information.

-- Ysearch (www.ysearch.org) and Ybase (www.ybase.org): Sponsored by Family Tree DNA and DNA Heritage respectively, these sites provide free databases for all to search or post their results, regardless of which testing company is used. While they don't provide links to project websites, you can e-mail those with your surname whose data is included.

-- Ancestry's Announcements of DNA Projects Board: Since this message board was launched a couple of months ago, at last check it contains about 335 messages, but it will presumably become a useful place to seek out existing projects as more people discover it. Alternatively, you can search the appropriate surname message boards at Ancestry (just search on +Smith + DNA, replacing Smith with your surname of interest), as quite a few include project announcements and updates as well.

--RootsWeb's GENEALOGY-DNA Mailing List: Still another alternative is searching the archives at Rootsweb's popular DNA mailing list. Quite a few participants in this list post announcements of their projects, as well as occasional interesting or unexpected results.

-- Testing Companies' Websites: Yet another option is to search at the websites of some of the companies that offer these genetic tests. These include Family Tree DNA (www.familytreedna.com), Relative Genetics, and DNA Heritage (www.dnaheritage.com).

-- Search Engine: And of course, there's always Google.com (or whatever your favorite search engine is). Simply enter “DNA” and the surname you're interested in. If you're dealing with a very common name and get too many hits, filter your search a bit more by adding words such as “genealogy” and “surname.”

You Were Smart to Wait

I became involved in genealogy more than thirty years ago, and when I meet new genealogists, I frequently tell them that they were smart to wait. While I wouldn't trade all those years of sleuthing for the world, I can't deny that research is easier and faster now than it was then.

The same is true of genetealogy. While I'm delighted that I jumped in back in January 2001, those who start now will have a slightly easier time of it. More projects are underway, a greater variety of tests exists, prices are lower, and you have a lot more genetic genealogy playmates to compare results with. If you're one of those who's been waiting for the pioneers among us to work out the kinks, I invite you to poke around a few of the resources listed above and see if the time is right for you to join us!

A Plea for Help!

I'm conducting a brief survey--just five questions--on genetic genealogy, and would greatly appreciate it if you would take a minute or two to participate. Please visit www.genetealogy.com and click on "Survey" in the menu bar at top. Thanks in advance for your help!

1. Immigrants arriving in New York - 1820 to 1891

This summer, an electronic database of passengers arriving by ship at Castle Garden, the immigration center in New York from 1850 - 1891, was placed on line at <http://www.castlegarden.org>. This project is still in process and they are continually adding to the approximate 10 million New York records for the period 1820 through 1892. Since they keep on adding to this database, you may want to go back to check it out. (Thanks to Arnie Lang)

2. Immigrants leaving from Bremen, Germany - 1920 to 1939

At http://www.schiffslisten.de/index_en.html is a searchable database of passengers leaving from Bremen for the years 1920 to 1939 (1920 to 1934 are now available)

The Bremen passenger records were recorded and saved starting in 1832. But unfortunately, from 1875 - 1908, the staff at Bremen destroyed all the lists older than 3 years for lack of office space.

The records that were saved after 1908 were lost to allied bombing in World War II. However, 2,953 passenger lists for the years 1920 - 1939 had in 1942 been stowed away for protection in a salt mine at Bernburg an der Saale together with other archives. These were after WWII transferred to the Moscow Archives and in 1990 to the Bremen Chamber of Commerce.

These lists are now being digitized and placed on line under an agreement between the Bremen Chamber of Commerce and the Bremen Society for Genealogical Investigation, DIE MAUS ("The Mouse"). The database links also to pictures of the ship. Requests for unpublished passenger lists will be replied by members of DIE MAUSE at kwesling@nwn.de when the name of the ship or the departure date is known. (thanks to Arnie Lang)

3. For emigration from Hamburg <http://ltyr.hamburg.de/index/>

(Look to your Roots) will give lots of information. A searchable database returns name, state of origin, birthdate, destination, and whether they went alone or not. For $25.- a more detailed report (for 1-3 records) can be bought. Further research can also be commissioned. So far the database contains 1890 through 1910. (thanks to Marion Armstrong)

4. The 1901 Canadian census records are on-line. The 1901 Census offers a rich source of information about Canada and Canadians at the turn of the 20th Century. You can access digitized images of the original census returns, which record age, nationality, religion, profession, income, education, etc. for every single resident on 31 March 1901. For information about this and others databases at the Canadian Archives, go to:

http://www.collectionscanada.ca/archivianet/0201_e.html

A surname index of the 1901 census is now virtually complete.

You can now search on line. For details:

Stern NARA Gift Fund

by Nancy Ronning

At the last Board meeting, the trustees voted to contribute $50. per year to the Stern NARA Gift Fund. Of the 1.5 million records held at NARA, only a tiny fraction have been microfilmed. These funds support the program that funds programs to create finding aids and microfilm valuable research materials in the collection. Among many others, the following have been filmed: Canadian Boarder Crossings 1859-1954; Records of Headstone Contracts and U.S. Soldiers' Burials, 1861-1903.

All records filmed with these funds are available through the LDS Family History Centers.
